Description

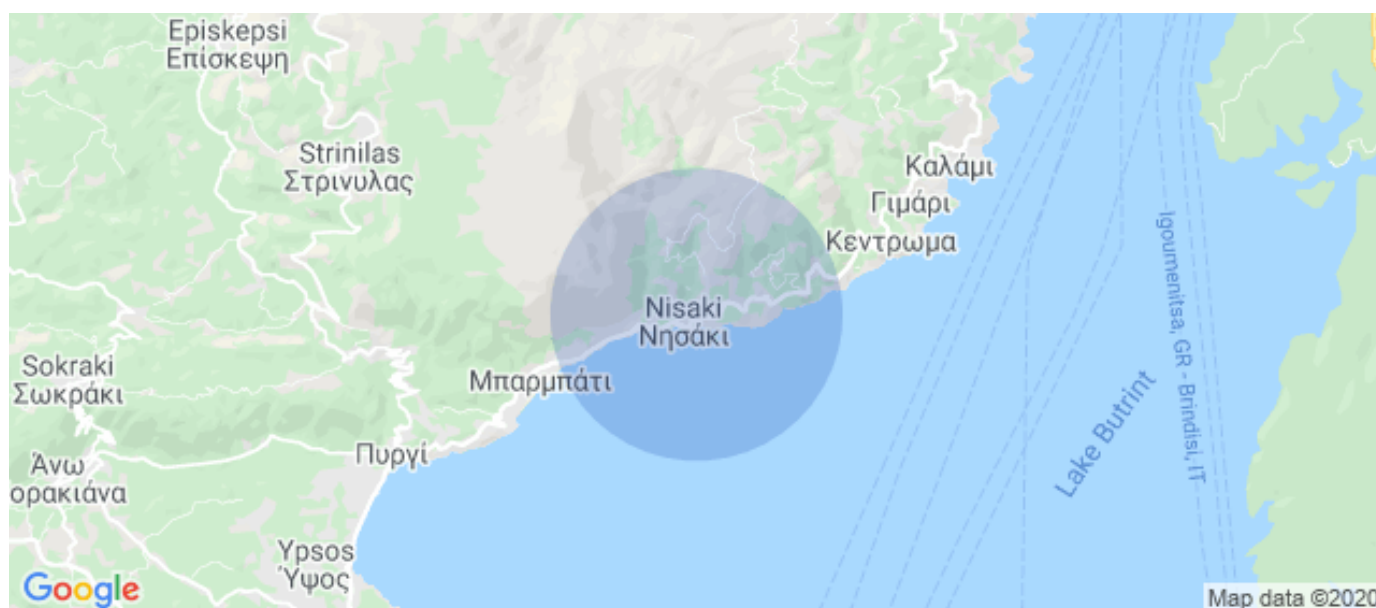

Situated in one of the most beautiful and sought-after Corfu areas, the small village of Nissaki in the northeast of Corfu, this old stone built olive mill covers a surface of 120 m2 and is easily accessed by a paved road.

The traditional olive mill is set within a plot of 500 m² and offers the possibility of additional building because it is part of the Nissaki settlement. The closest beach is only 400 m away and the amenities provided by the small village are enough to meet all daily needs.

The property requires full renovation and restoration works due to its age, while only 70 m² from the total surface still have a rooftop. Should the property be fully restored, then the olive mill could be easily turned into a prosperous investment due to its privileged location and architectural uniqueness that offer high rental potential.

The property is south-facing and offers splendid views over the Ionian Sea, the eastern coasts and the town of Corfu. Last but not least, the plot can easily feature a swimming pool and parking area.
